Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

What does 'a good book' mean to you? Well, this is what the judges for the Man Booker Prize for Fiction have to decide each year, when they have to choose which book should win the prize.

The Man Booker Prize for Fiction, previously known as the Booker-McConnell Prize, is awarded annually. The prize was established in 1968, and the first novel chosen for the prize was announced in 1969. Originally, the prize was given for books published before the year in which the prize was awarded, but in 1971, the rules changed. A book now has to be published in the same year as the prize is awarded in order to be considered as a possible winner.

Despite several other changes, the objectives have remained the same since the prize began. One of the objectives is to encourage people to read more quality fiction. Another intention is to significantly increase the sales of the winning book. This benefits not only the author but the book- selling trade as well.

The annual process of choosing a winning book, which must be a full-length novel, takes the best part of a year. It starts in November, when the names of the judges are announced. Then, any author who wants their book to be considered for the prize has to submit an application form by the following March. Judges then have until July to identify 12 or 13 books, all of which must have been published in the UK, from which the winning book will eventually be chosen. This selection of titles is known as the longlist, and it is reduced to a shortlist of six books by September. Finally, the winner is announced at a formal dinner. This ceremony, held in October, is even broadcast live on television and radio.

In the first few years, each of the winners of the Booker Prize was awarded £5000. The prize money was doubled in 1978 to £10000, and currently it is £50000. Each of the authors on the shortlist receives £2500 and a specially produced edition of their book.

Although authors come from different backgrounds and have different nationalities, they all follow the rules that their books should be written in English, and in addition, none of them has been translated from another Language.

A} From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5x10=50 Marks)

28-The main idea of the 2nd paragraph is:

- a-how winners celebrated the event.
- b-how the judges chose the winners.
- c-how much the winners of the Man Booker Prize received.
- d-how the Man Booker Prize developed through the years.

29-The underlined word "intention" in the 3rd paragraph is closest in meaning to:

- a. change
- b. quality
- c. objective
- d. encouragement

30-The underlined word "them" in the last paragraph refers to:

- a. books
- b. authors
- c. backgrounds
- d. nationalities

31-According to the 4th paragraph, a winning book must be:

- a. broadcast on TV.
- b. translated in English.
- c. published in the UK.
- d. published before the year of the prize.

32-All the following statements about the Man Booker Prize are TRUE EXCEPT:

- a-It is awarded every two years.
- b-Its first winner was announced in 1969.
- c-It encourages people to read more quality fiction.
- d-The selection of winners takes the best part of a year.

B} With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x15=60Marks}

33-What was the first name of the Man Booker Prize for Fiction?

Engaging in food preparation offers several significant advantages for young children. Firstly, it encourages them to eat the meals they have made and try new types of food they might otherwise avoid. Additionally, working in the kitchen helps children build social bonds and learn the value of cooperation. Finally, this early exposure can inspire a lifelong passion .

VI- READING COMPREHENSION (110 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

One of the biggest and most expensive transportation projects in the world is bridge building. Bridges are important links that carry cars, trucks and trains across bodies of water, mountains or other roads. As a result, they have to be strong so that they won't fall or collapse.

Bridge collapses can be tragic events, leading to loss of life and serious property damage. That's why bridge engineers, designers and builders must always take their jobs very seriously. The best way for them to prevent these accidents is to understand why bridges collapse in the first place. Understanding bridge collapses can lead to major changes in the design, construction and safety of future building projects.

There are many reasons why bridges fall which can be either due to their design or to external factors. Historically, more bridges were made of wood and were much more sensitive to fire. This was particularly true of old train bridges that would sometimes catch fire and burn to the ground. Besides, a large number of bridge accidents occur during the construction of the bridge itself. These accidents are often due to an error made by the engineers, such as a miscalculation. The bridge collapses under its own weight, and this can be deadly for the workers on it at the time. Additionally, earthquakes damage all structures, including bridges. Luckily, this kind of collapse is relatively infrequent, especially with modern bridges. Engineers have learned to design bridges in earthquake zones on areas that are much more resistant to movement. Moreover, some bridge collapses are mysteries, and engineers only realise the reasons after they do a complete research. In some cases, this could happen because low-quality material was used in the construction, or because of a problem in an important part of the bridge. In other cases, the bridge was designed only to support a certain amount of weight and no more.

As for external factors bridge collapses can be due to boat or train crashes. Both of these kinds of accidents are extremely rare, but boats and trains can cause a bridge to collapse for different reasons. With trains, it's the high speed that can bring a bridge down. With boats, it's the heavy weight that can cause the collapse, even if they are moving very slowly when the crash happens.

The best way to avoid bridge failures is to plan for them. Modern technologies that can detect structural weakness, safer working environments and better designs can all help to reduce these terrible accidents.

From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5 X 10 = 50 marks)

27. What is the best title for the passage?

- a) Civil Engineers
- b) Means of Transportation
- c) Devastating Earthquakes
- d) Reasons for Bridge Collapse

28. The underlined word “infrequent” in the 3rd paragraph is closest in meaning to:

- a) unreal
- b) invisible
- c) uncommon
- d) incorrect

29. The underlined pronoun “they” in the 1st paragraph refers to:

- a) bridges
- b) mountains
- c) other roads
- d) trucks and trains

30. According to the passage, when engineers understand why bridges fall down, they can:

- a) stop using boats and trains.
- b) stop designing bridges in earthquake zones.
- c) build bridges that only support a certain amount of weight.
- d) make changes in the designs, construction and safety of future bridges.

31. According to the passage, all of the following sentences are NOT TRUE EXCEPT:

- a) Earthquakes always damage bridges only.
- b) Boat crashes never cause bridge collapses.
- c) Low – quality material is one of the unknown reasons for bridge collapses.
- d) Engineers can’t realise why bridges collapse after doing a complete research.

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x 15 = 60 marks)

27. In what way are bridges important?

28. Why must bridge engineers, designers and builders take their job seriously?

29. How could engineers avoid a bridge collapse due to earthquakes?

VII - SUMMARY MAKING (60 Marks)

- Read the following passage, then do as required:

It is hard to know where to start when beginning strength training. There are countless exercises you can do. Some of which work with certain bodies, while others don't. With some familiarity of the basics, you can begin to craft a routine helping you achieve your personal goals.

Strength training should be a part of your workout routine due to its numerous benefits. One purpose of strength training is to build muscles and improve bone density. For another thing, strength training increases the strength of ligaments and joint functioning. It can also help raise good cholesterol levels and lower blood sugar levels. Moreover, most people like strength training because of its most obvious benefit which is having a slimmer appearance.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarize and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question:

- What are the benefits of strength training?

Answers must include the FOUR following ideas:

VI- READING COMPREHENSION (110 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

One of the biggest and most expensive transportation projects in the world is bridge building. Bridges are important links that carry cars, trucks and trains across bodies of water, mountains or other roads. As a result, they have to be strong so that they won't fall or collapse.

Bridge collapses can be tragic events, leading to loss of life and serious property damage. That's why bridge engineers, designers and builders must always take their jobs very seriously. The best way for them to prevent these accidents is to understand why bridges collapse in the first place. Understanding bridge collapses can lead to major changes in the design, construction and safety of future building projects.

There are many reasons why bridges fall which can be either due to their design or to external factors. Historically, more bridges were made of wood and were much more sensitive to fire. This was particularly true of old train bridges that would sometimes catch fire and burn to the ground. Besides, a large number of bridge accidents occur during the construction of the bridge itself. These accidents are often due to an error made by the engineers, such as a miscalculation. The bridge collapses under its own weight, and this can be deadly for the workers on it at the time. Additionally, earthquakes damage all structures, including bridges. Luckily, this kind of collapse is relatively infrequent, especially with modern bridges. Engineers have learned to design bridges in earthquake zones on areas that are much more resistant to movement. Moreover, some bridge collapses are mysteries, and engineers only realise the reasons after they do a complete research. In some cases, this could happen because low-quality material was used in the construction, or because of a problem in an important part of the bridge. In other cases, the bridge was designed only to support a certain amount of weight and no more.

As for external factors bridge collapses can be due to boat or train crashes. - d-Engineers can't realise why bridges collapse after doing a complete research.

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x 15 = 60 marks)

32-In what way are bridges important?

They are important links that carry vehicles (cars/trucks/trains) across water, mountains, or other roads

33-Why must bridge engineers, designers and builders take their job seriously?

Because bridge collapses can be tragic, leading to loss of life and serious property damage.

34-How could engineers avoid a bridge collapse due to earthquakes?

By designing bridges in earthquake zones on areas that are more resistant to movement.

35-How can modern technology help reduce bridge accidents?

It helps by detecting structural weaknesses and creating safer working environments and better designs.
