Read the following passage and answer the questions:

The environment, comprising air, land, and forests, is in danger due to human activities. Safeguarding it is crucial for the safety of living beings. Planting trees is vital to replenish oxygen levels and protect forests from harm, necessitating legal protection. Soil conservation methods, like preventing landslides and erosion and using natural fertilizers, are imperative. Effective waste management and clean streets, along with adequate sanitation facilities, are essential governmental responsibilities. Pollution, from sources like factories and cars, poses significant threats, demanding reduction strategies. Protecting the environment yields numerous benefits, including climate stabilization, health improvement, and species preservation. Collaborative efforts are needed to ensure the environment's preservation for current and future generations. At last, I say that saving our planet is a collective responsibility.

Answer:

Social Media

Social media plays an important part in our life nowadays. Overusing social media is a kind of addiction. Some people defend social media as a part of modern life. Other people are against social media. They think that it wastes time and money. We should use social media wisely.
