B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Electric cars and gas cars are two types of vehicles that many people use today. While they both help us get from one place to another, they work in very different ways, and each type has its own benefits and drawbacks.

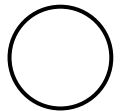

Electric cars run on electricity stored in batteries. They use electric motors instead of gas-powered engines. One of the biggest advantages of electric cars is that they are better for the environment. Since they do not produce harmful exhaust gases, they help reduce air pollution. Electric cars are also quiet and cost less to drive because electricity is cheaper than gasoline. Another benefit is that they require less maintenance because they have fewer moving parts.

However, electric cars also have disadvantages. They usually cost more to buy than gas cars. Also, they have a limited driving range before the battery needs to be recharged. Charging can take a long time, especially with a standard home charger. In some areas, charging stations may be hard to find.

Gas cars run on gasoline and have internal combustion engines. They are usually cheaper to buy and can drive longer distances on one tank of gas. Gas stations are easy to find, and refuelling only takes a few minutes. However, gas cars cause pollution, and gas prices can be high. They also need regular maintenance such as oil changes and engine checks.

In conclusion, both electric and gas cars have their own strengths and weaknesses. The best choice depends on a person's needs, budget, and concern for the environment.
